AMERICA HAS FURNISHED TO THE WORLD THE CHARACTER OF WASHINGTON! AND IF OUR AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS HAD DONE NOTHING ELSE, THAT ALONE WOULD HAVE ENTITLED THEM TO THE RESPECT OF MANKIND.

—DANIEL WEBSTER.

PREFACE.

One hundred and fifty-seven years ago, there was born in a plain Virginia farm-house, a boy, whose life history has commanded the admiration and respect of the world, and the love and veneration of his countrymen. That boy—a leader among boys—became the hardy young Surveyor, the trusted Commissioner, the Virginia Colonel, the Commander-in-Chief, and finally the First President of the United States. A brief summary! but those years of progression teem with events and results, among the most remarkable in the history of man. A people winning independence, a republic originated and consolidated, a world advanced in ideas and humanity. That boy, that man, steadily growing and steadily working, controlled these events, utilized these results, and made possible the glorious future of his country.

Yet the history of George Washington is not always a recital of brilliant exploits in the field,—the cunning strategy of the Commander,—nor is it always a narrative of startling movements in the cabinet,—the secret diplomacy of the Statesman,—but it is always the consistent record of a man true to himself, true to his country, true to his God. The Life of an earnest, honest man, of a sincere, conscientious ruler, and of a patriot without guile; never faltering in the right, never neglecting a duty, never hesitating in his love and devotion for his country. Pure of thought, pure of action, unerring in judgment, unwearied in effort.

This life history has been written so often, and has appeared in so many forms, from the slight sketch to the ponderous quarto, from the school-book of a single volume, to the finished production of many, that but few are aware of the number and how constantly it has been added to. It is proper, therefore, that some attempt should be made to impart such information, and by devoting this volume to that purpose we shall endeavor to furnish a list of these sketches and biographies, so that the student and reader may know what to refer to and what to make useful.

While the list has been made as complete as was possible, we do not necessarily claim it to be exhaustive, especially as regards the sketches; but, at the same time feel assured, that for all practical purposes it will be found sufficient.

The chronological arrangement of titles has prevented the grouping together of all the editions of particular works, which would have been desirable, but as such information can he had by reference to the Index, that sequence, certainly the best, has been adhered to.

The word re-issue, as used throughout the work, is intended to convey the fact that the book or sketch under consideration, was printed from the stereotype-plates of an earlier date, and the word reprinted indicates a new set up of type, duplicating the text of the original publication, but not, however, necessarily the same as to the size or number of pages.

The numbers designating the different portraits in these publications, correspond with those in a previous work of the writer, entitled the "Engraved Portraits of Washington," where fuller descriptions are furnished.

The etched portrait prefixed to the volume is from the three-quarter length painted from life by Joseph Wright, at Philadelphia, in 1784, for Mrs. Samuel Powel, of that city, an intimate friend of Washington. The portrait, still in the possession of the Powel family at Newport, R. I., is remarkable for its pronounced personality without any attempt at the ideal, and in that respect, while possessing no particular artistic excellence, is extremely interesting and valuable. The etching executed expressly for this work by Mr. Albert Rosenthal of Philadelphia, from his own drawing made in the summer of 1888, is a close translation of the original, which, with the exception of a reproduction on wood published in the Century Magazine for November, 1887, has not heretofore been engraved.

Joseph Wright, the painter of the "Powel Portrait," was born at Bordentown, New Jersey, July 16th, 1756, and died at Philadelphia in 1793. The family having removed to England after the decease of his father, Mr. Wright studied both at Paris and London, where his mother, Mrs. Patience Lovell Wright, was well known as an excellent modeler in wax. After his return to this country Mr. Wright painted several portraits of Washington from life, the first being executed at Rocky Hill, New Jersey, in 1783, the year previous to the production of the "Powel Portrait." Other portraits followed, one of the most interesting being a drawing in profile made in New York in 1790. This the artist afterwards reproduced in a small etching, probably the earliest painter-etching of any importance executed in America.

In closing this my fourth and final contribution to "Washingtoniana," let me say to my countrymen, that one of the imperative duties of citizenship is to keep alive the sacred fire of patriotism, which burned so purely and so steadily, in the breast of our Washington, and that in no way can the fulfilment of this duty—a common heritage—be better understood than by the careful study of the Life and the Character of the FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY!

A Sketch of Mr. Washington's Life and Character. [Appended to a Poetical Epistle to His Excellency, George Washington, Esq. Annapolis: Printed 1779. London: Reprinted MDCCLXXX. Sq. 8vo. Portrait after C. W. Peale, Baker, 35.]

The sketch which occupies pp. 14–24 of the pamphlet, was written by John Bell, Esq., of Maryland, and forms the contents of a letter by him to a friend in Europe, dated May 3d, 1779, published the following year as above described. The author of the epistle to which it was annexed was Charles Henry Wharton, also a native of Maryland, but at the time a resident of Worcester, England, and to whom in all probability the letter was addressed. The sketch, which so far as we know, is the first attempt at a Biography of Washington made in America, was also printed in the London Chronicle, July 22d, 1780. Of the writer, John Bell, we have no information other than the statement in the preface, that he was "connected and intimate in the family" of Washington. The pamphlet has been reprinted several times, the last being at New York, in 1865.

JONES (THOMAS). 6

Biographical Sketch of George Washington. [History of New York during the Revolutionary War. By Thomas Jones, Justice of the Supreme Court of the Province. Edited by Edward Floyd de Lancey. New York: Printed for the New York Historical Society, 1879. 2 vols., 8vo.]

Thomas Jones was born in Queens County, Province of New York, April 30th, 1731. He married a daughter of James de Lancey, Governor of New York, and at the time of the outbreak of the Revolution was a Justice of the Supreme Court of the Province. In consequence of his adherence to the royal cause, Judge Jones lost his estate under the confiscation act, and was one of the fifty-six gentlemen and three ladies included in the New York Act of Attainder. Judge Jones left the United States in 1781, and died in England, July 25th, 1792. During the years 1783–88, he employed his leisure hours in recording the events of the period, the MS. of which was preserved and published at New York in 1879, as above described. Included in the work are short sketches of several of the prominent participators in the Revolution; the Washington sketch (Vol. II, pp. 344–49) may have been written about the year 1785.

MORSE (JEDIDIAH). 7

Sketch of the Life of General Washington. [The American Geography; or, a view of the present situation of the United States of America. By Jedidiah Morse. Elizabethtown: Printed by Shepard Kollock for the Author. MDCCLXXXIX. 8vo.]

The sketch, pp. 127–32, is introduced as a note to a reference in the text, of the appointment of "George Washington, Esq., a native of Virginia," to the Chief Command of the American Army. The mention of Washington in the text closes as follows: "While true merit is esteemed, or virtue honored, mankind will never cease to revere the memory of this Hero; and while gratitude remains in the human breast, the praise of WASHINGTON shall dwell on every American tongue."

* The earliest application of this epithet to Washington, which has come to the knowledge of the writer, occurs in a German almanac, the "Nord Americanische Calender" for the year 1779, printed at Lancaster, Pa., a copy of which is in the library of Samuel W. Pennypacker, LL.D., of Philadelphia. The frontispiece of the full size of the page, sm. 4to, an emblematic design, presents in the upper portion of it, a figure of Fame with a trumpet in her right hand, and in her left a medallion portrait, laureated, inscribed "Waschington." From the trumpet proceed the words, "Des Landes Vater," the FATHER OF THE COUNTRY. The material for the almanac, furnished by David Rittenhouse, was doubtless prepared and printed in 1778.—W. S. B.

United States. [The Philadelphia Monthly Magazine. Volume First. Philadelphia: Printed for Thomas Condie, Stationer, No. 20 Carter's-Alley. 1798. Portrait after Savage, Baker, 130.]

A compilation, for the most part, from the sketches by John Bell, No. 3, and Jedidiah Morse, No. 7, the interest of the narrative being sustained by the introduction of Washington's Journal of 1753; the Address of the Provincial Congress of New York (June 26th, 1775), with the answer of Washington; his Farewell Address to the Armies of the United States; the resignation of his Commission at Annapolis; his letter to the Governor of Virginia, declining the acceptance of certain shares in an Improvement Company, and his Inaugural Address, April 30th, 1789. The Philadelphia Monthly Magazine for 1798, in which these Memoirs appear, seems to have been issued only for that year, not reaching beyond Vol. I. Thomas Condie, for whom it was printed, and whose name is affixed as the compiler of the Memoirs, was a book-binder by trade. He died about the year 1815.

SCOTT (JOSEPH). 17

An History of the Life of the illustrious George Washington, Commander in Chief of the American Armies during our Revolutionary War with Great Britain. First President of the United States, and since, Lieutenant General of the Army. By Joseph Scott. Philadelphia.

The above title is taken from an advertisement in The Aurora, Philadelphia, December 28th, 1799, submitting proposals for the publication of said Life in one vol., 8vo, pp. 400, with "a striking likeness of the General." No copy of a Life of Washington by Joseph Scott is known to the writer, and it may not have been issued. Joseph Scott was the author of the "United States Gazetteer," Philadelphia, 1795, a "Geographical Description of the United States," 1805, and other works of a similar character.

CONDIE (THOMAS). 20

Biographical Memoirs | of the | Illustrious | Gen. Geo: Washington, | late President | of the | United States of America, etc., etc. | Containing | a History of the Principal Events of his Life, | with extracts from his Journals, | Speeches to Congress, and | Public Addresses: | Also | a Sketch of his Private Life. | Philadelphia: | Printed by Charless & Ralston. | 1800. 18mo, pp. 232.

Substantially the same as No. 16, with slight changes, and additions; the additions comprise several letters by Washington to Congress, during 1775, '76, '77, the correspondence with General Gage, August, 1775, the orders to the Army (April 18th, 1783), proclaiming the cessation of hostilities, a brief history of the administration of Washington, and an account of his death. The preface is dated Moyamensing, Feb., 1800. Moyamensing was a township lying south of Philadelphia and adjoining thereto; it is now included in the corporate limits of that city.

CORRY (JOHN). 21

A Sketch of the Life of the late General Washington. By John Corry. [The British Magazine. Vol. I. February, March, April and May Numbers. London: Printed for G. Kearsley, Fleet-Street, 1800. Portrait, Baker, 430.]

John Corry, the writer of the above sketch, was a native of Ireland, and followed the profession of a journalist in Dublin. He went to London about 1792, and there found constant employment for his versatile pen. Mr. Corry was the author of numerous works; his last known publication, "A History of Lancashire," 2 vols., 4to, was issued at London in 1825.

CORRY (JOHN). 22

The | Life | of | George Washington, | late | President | and | Commander in Chief | of the | Armies | of the | United States of America; | interspersed with | Biographical Anecdotes | of the | most eminent Men who effected the American | Revolution, | dedicated (by permission) to the right | Honourable the Lord Mayor. | By John Corry. |

With the exception of pp. 11–28, which are substantially the same as the corresponding portions of the preceding number, this is a different production, being almost entirely re-written. It is here that the well-known opening paragraph, "In the history of man, we contemplate," etc., the ear-mark of all subsequent editions and abridgments of this Life, so popular in the first quarter of the century, appears for the first time.

Biographical Sketch of George Washington. [Appended to a Prayer and Sermon delivered at Charlestown, December 31st, 1799; on the death of George Washington. By Jedidiah Morse, D.D. Charlestown: 1800. 8vo.]

The sketch, which occupies twenty-six separate pages of the pamphlet, is fuller in detail and more complete than the previous one by the same writer in the "American Geography," No. 7, although much of the original phraseology is retained. In furnishing some additional matter and facts, Dr. Morse cites as authority the letter by John Bell, Esq., of Maryland, No. 3, as published in the Massachusetts Magazine for March, 1791. The pamphlet, omitting the Farewell Address, was reprinted by J. Bateson, London: 1800.

MARSHALL (JOHN). 49

The | Life | of | George Washington, | Commander in Chief | of the | American Forces, | during the War which established the Independence | of his Country, | and | First President | of the | United States. | Compiled | under the inspection of | the Honourable Bushrod Washington, | from | Original Papers | bequeathed to him by his deceased Relative, and now in possession | of the Author. | To which is prefixed, | an Introduction, | containing | a compendious View of the Colonies planted by the English | on the | Continent of North America, | from their settlement | to the commencement of that War which terminated in their | Independence. | By John Marshall. | Vol. I. | Philadelphia : | Printed and Published by C. P. Wayne. | 1804.

5 vols., 8vo, 1804–7, pp. XXII, 488 (45); VIII, 560 (72); VIII, 580 (28); VIII, 626 (16); VII, 779 (36). Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 210; 4to Vol. of maps (10), and subscribers' names. Vols. II, III, IV and V contain the "Life of George Washington," the First Volume being devoted to the Introduction or Colonial History.

From the fact of General Washington having bequeathed all his papers, both of a public and private natnre, to his nephew, Bushrod Washington, it came to be generally understood at the time that he would prepare the much needed biography of his uncle, and that the latter really expected it of him. That such was the intention of Judge Washington is made apparent by the following announcement over his signature in the True American, Philadelphia, August 18th, 1800: "Having at length engaged a gentleman of distinguished talents to assist in writing a History of the Life of the late General Washington, this work will be immediately commenced, and will be completed as expeditiously as the nature of such an undertaking will permit." The "gentleman of distinguished talents" was John Marshall, shortly afterwards appointed Chief Justice of the United States. Subsequently, September 23d, 1802, Judge Washington disposed of the copy-right of the work thus inaugurated, to Caleb P. Wayne, publisher, of Philadelphia, who on the same day issued proposals for its publication by subscription, vide Poulson's Daily Advertiser of that date. How much or how little Judge Washington contributed to the work is not known, but it is presumed to have been nothing beyond the selection of Marshall as the writer, and the necessary examination of the papers bequeathed to him. It is somewhat singular, however, that in the many public notices of the work the name of Judge Marshall does not appear as the author, until February 15th, 1804, when the certificate of copy-right, as printed in Vol. I, above described, is published in the Daily Advertiser, in connection with the announcement that the volume is nearly ready for distribution. Marshall's Life of Washington was the first important contribution to the subject, and it is still regarded as the standard Biography. The sale was unusually large, and many copies were printed, demanding on the part of Edwin, the engraver, the execution of several plates of the portrait, in order to furnish good impressions.

The Life | of | George Washington, | Commander in Chief of the American | Forces, | during the War which established the | Independence of his Country, | and | First President of the United States: | Compiled under the inspection of | the Honourable Bushrod Washington, | from Original Papers bequeathed to him by his deceased Relative. | To which is prefixed | an Introduction, | containing a compendious View of the Colonies planted by the English on | the Continent of North America. | By John Marshall, | Chief Justice of the United States, etc. etc. | Vol. I. | London: | Printed for Richard Phillips. | No. 71 St. Paul's Church-yard. | 1804.

5 vols., 4to, 1804–7, pp. XXXII, 458 (pp. 257–308 are repeated); VII, 541; VIII, 460; VII, 589; VII, 669–1 (pp. 293–319 are repeated). Vol. I, Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 226, and 2 Maps, + Vol. II, 1 Plate, + Vol. III, 1 Plate and Vignette, + Vol. V, 10 Maps.

Dedicated by the English editor to the Marquis of Lansdowne, and printed simultaneously with the Philadelphia edition, No. 49; the Portrait, the two Maps of the Northern and Southern States in Vol. I, and the Plates and Vignette, Vols. II, III, being peculiar to this edition. The 10 Maps in Vol. V, are copies of those issued with the American edition. The difference of the make-up from that edition, apart from the size of the page, consists in printing the lengthy notes at the end of each volume as foot-notes, and a change in the arrangement of some chapters in Vols. II, III and IV. This admirable issue of the English press is certainly not one of the least of the notable tributes which have been paid to the memory of Washington.

This edition was set up and printed about the same time as the preceding number, and with the exception of the size of the page, is precisely the same. In the 4to, the date of the "Advertisement of the Publisher," at the end of Vol. I, is May 10th, 1804, in the 8vo, it is May 26th, 1804.

AMERICAN NEPOS. 56

George Washington, Commander in Chief of the American Armies. [The American Nepos. Baltimore: 1806. 12mo.]

An abridgment of the Life by John Corry, No. 22, retaining the greater part of the text, but omitting many paragraphs, and in some cases entire passages; the most important omissions being the accounts of the battles of Lexington and Bunker Hill, the sketch of Benjamin Franklin, the Character of Washington by M. de la Fayette, the description of Mount Vernon, the Farewell Address, and the parallel between Washington and Alfred the Great. At the end of the sketch, however, some additional matter is printed, consisting of the proceedings of Congress on the death of Washington, his Character by Charles James Fox, and a "Scotch Traveller," and a monody recited by Mr. Wignell, at Philadelphia, December 24th, 1799.

New York: | Printed by W. W. Hyer, No. 71, Pine-Street, | for Joseph Slipper. | 1807. 12mo, pp. 216.

A reprint of No. 22, with a few unimportant changes, and some additional matter; the lengthy foot-notes, also, of that edition are printed as parts of the text. The additional matter consists of the Declaration of Independence and Washington's Inaugural Address to Congress, April 30th, 1780, both given entire. Another interesting addition, pp. 158–161, is the account of Washington's reception in Philadelphia, when on his way to New York, to be inaugurated as President, taken from the Memoirs by Thomas Condie, No. 20.

"Th' applause of list'ning senates to command,
The threats of pain and ruin to dispise,
To scatter plenty o'er a smiling land,
And read his hist'ry in a nation's eyes."—GRAY.

New York: | Printed by, and for John Low, at Shakes | peare's Head, No. 33, Chatham-Street. | 1807. 12mo, pp. 349. Subscribers' names (vii). Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 327.

What with the eight introductory chapters treating of the discovery of America, and the settlement of the different colonies; the full account of the treason of Arnold and the execution of André, together with other additions, including the Constitution of the United States, and Amendments, very little of Corry is found in this volume, although enough crops out here and there to save the announcement on the title-page from being altogether a mis-statement. The claim, however, as to its being the "First American Edition," is outside of the truth, as may be easily proved by an examination of No. 42.

5 vols., 8vo, pp. 534; 491; 470; 608; XXIV, 556. Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 205, and 4to Vol. of 3 Plates, 12 Maps.

A French translation of No. 50, retaining the dedication to the Marquis of Lansdowne, but omitting the lengthy foot-notes. The Plates and Maps are copies of those issued with the English edition.

RAMSAY (DAVID). 64

The | Life | of | George Washington, | Commander in Chief | of the | Armies of the United States of America, | throughout the War which established their | Independence; | and | First President of the United States. | By David Ramsay, M.D. | Author of the History of the American Revolution. | New York: | Printed by Hopkins & Seymour. | . . . . . | 1807. 8vo, pp. VIII, 376. Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 274.

The oration on the death of Washington, delivered at Charleston (S. C.), January 15th, 1800, by Dr. Ramsay, is largely biographic.

RAMSAY (DAVID). 65

The | Life | of | George Washington, | Commander in Chief of the Armies | of the United States | in the War which established their Independence; | and First President of the | United States. | By | David Ramsay, M.D., | of Charleston, South Carolina, | Member of Congress in 1782, 1783, 1784, and 1785; | and Author of | the History of the American Revolution. | London: | Printed by Luke Hansard & Sons, | For T. Cadell and W. Davies, in the Strand; and | Longman, Hurst, Rees & Orme, Paternoster Row. | 1807. 8vo, pp. VIII, 464. Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 251.

The contents of this volume are substantially the same as the preceding number, with a few comparatively unimportant omissions and some changes; the most marked being the different introduction to Chapter II, referring to the origin of the Revolutionary War. The dedication is also different, one being to the "Youth of the United States," the other, to "Emperors, Kings and others."

Sixth Edition. Greatly Improved. | By M. L. Weems, | formerly Rector of Mount-Vernon Parish. | Philadelphia: | Printed for the Author, | by R. Cochran. | 1808. | Copy-right secured. 12mo, pp. 228.

Quite a different production from No. 32, being almost entirely re-written, yet retaining all its quaintness and originality. It is also divided into chapters, and possesses some claims to the dignity of biography (sui generis), being fuller in detail and more consecutive in narrative. Very little of the original sketch has been used, although here and there entire sentences and paragraphs occur. For instance, in treating of the moral qualities of Washington, the chapters on Benevolence and Industry, and the corresponding articles of the original, are almost identical, and the same may be said as to a large portion of the chapter entitled the death of Washington; as also different historical references on pp. 70, 77, 82 and 89–95. This edition was copy-righted at Philadelphia, September 20th, 1808, as the Sixth, but it is really the First of the popular "Weems' Washington," as the well known "curious anecdotes," promised on the title-page, such as—the hatchet story,—the cabbage-seed story,—the dream of his Mother, etc., etc., appear in this volume for the first time.

A reprint of No. 69. The Eighth Edition was the last one printed for the author, as the copyright was then sold to Mathew Carey, the well known publisher and philanthropist of Philadelphia. The sum paid was one thousand dollars, as stated by Weems himself in a letter to Benjamin Warner, Bookseller of that city, dated Richmond, Va., May 26th, 1820. The illustrations—from copper-plates—do not exhibit much technical ability either in drawing or engraving. They are as follows: Death of Genl. Montgomery—Defeat of Genl. Braddock—Battle of Lexington—Battle of Bunker's Hill and Death of Genl. Warren—Capture of Major Andrè—and Surrender of Lord Cornwallis.

George Washington, Commander in Chief of the American Army during the War with Great Britain, and First President of the United States. [The New American Biographic Dictionary. By J. Kingston. Baltimore: 1810. 18mo. Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 234.]

A reprint of the sketch in "Allen's Biographical Dictionary," No. 71, with a brief additional concluding paragraph: "Finally, what has Washington not done for his native country and the world that mortal man could do. God grant the blessings he obtained for us, in conjunction with his martial brethren in the field and in the Senate, may be most sacredly esteemed and resolutely guarded for the sake of a nation's honour and a nation's joy."

LEMPRIERE (JOHN). 84

George Washington, the Illustrious Founder of American Independence. [Universal Biography: By J. Lempriere, D.D. Vol. II. New York: 1810. 8vo.]

WEEMS (MASON L.). 85

Das Leben | des | Georg Waschington, | mit | Sonderbaren Anecdoten, | Sowohl ehrenvoll für ihn Selbst, | als auch | nachahmungswürdig für seine junge Landsleute. |

> Ein Leben, wie nützlich seinem Lande geführt!
> Wie beliebt, da er lebte!—wie geehrt, im Tode!
> Lispelt! Lispelt seinen Namen, ihr noch ungeborne Kinder!
> Und schmücket eure Namen mit ähnlichen Thaten.

Von M. L. Weems, | ehemaligem Prediger der Mount-Vernon Kirche. | Aus dem Englischen übersezt | nach der neunten sehr verbesserten Auflage. | Libanon, (Penn.) | Gedruckt bei J. Schnee, für M. Carey in Philadelphia. | 1810. 12mo, pp. 240. Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 339. 6 Plates.

A German translation of the ninth edition of the Life of Weems, No. 78. The illustrations are from the plates of that edition, with additional titles in German.

WEEMS (MASON L.). 86

The Life | of | George Washington; | with | curious anecdotes, | equally honorable to Himself and | exemplary to his Young Countrymen. |

A life how useful to his country led!
How loved! while living—how revered! now dead!
Lisp! lisp! his name, ye children yet unborn!
And with like deeds your own great names adorn.

Tenth Edition—Greatly Improved. | Embellished with seven Engravings. | By M. L. Weems, | formerly Rector of Mount-Vernon Parish. | 'The author has treated this great subject with admi | rable success in a new way. He turns all the actions | of Washington to the encouragement of virtue, by a | careful application of numerous exemplifications | drawn from the conduct of the founder of our re | public from his earliest life.' | H. Lee, Major-General Army U. S. | Philadelphia: | Printed for Mathew Carey. | 1810. 12mo, pp. 228. Portrait after Stuart, Baker, 339. 6 Plates.

With the exception of the abbreviation of the quotation from General Lee on the title-page, this is a reprint of No. 78, and the title as above given is retained in all subsequent editions, of which so many have appeared. The Twenty-sixth, in 1824, seems to have been the last one issued by Carey, who about that time sold the plates—stereotyped in 1818—to Joseph Allen, of Frankford, near Philadelphia, whose family, it is said, still derive some revenue from them. At the time of the transfer to Allen, the illustrations were from other copper-plates than the originals, of which several sets had been executed; the new set—upright in shape—being much better both in design and workmanship. The Twenty-ninth edition, 1826, appears to have been the last numbered one. In 1828 wood-cuts replaced the copper-plates, and subsequently, about 1840, new stereotype-plates were cast, pp. 244, which are still used by the present publishers, Lippincott & Co., the last printing bearing date 1882.

At the time of the publication of this work, it was highly commended for its Latinity, and used for some time as a text-book in the grammar-school of Columbia College, N. Y.; it is now, however, considered merely as a literary curiosity. The quotation on the Latin title-page, purporting to be from the fragment of Cicero, prophesying the future appearance and deeds of Washington, was the source of considerable bewilderment on the part of the scholars of the day, who investigated it without success. Professor Charles Anthon, of Columbia College, having finally confessed that he had written the passage himself, the classical inquiries came to an end. We furnish a translation of this literary deception: "Far across the ocean, if we may credit the Sybilline books, and after many ages, an extensive and rich continent will be discovered, and in it will arise a hero who, by his council and arms, will deliver his country from the slavery by which she was oppressed. This shall he do under favorable auspices; and, oh, how much more admirable will he be than our Brutus and Camillas. These predictions were known to our Accius, who has embodied them in his Nyctegresia, and embellished with the ornaments of poetry."

The | Life | of | George Washington. | By Jared Sparks. | Unus qui nobis cunctando restituit rem; | non ponebat enim rumores ante salutem; | ergo magisque magisque viri nunc gloria claret. | Boston: | Published by Ferdinand Andrews. | 1839.

Imp. 8vo, pp. XIX (1), 562. 3 Portraits, Baker, 27, 100, 206; 2 Maps, 5 Plates, 2 Illustrations, and 2 Portraits of Mrs. Washington.

With the exception of a more detailed description of Fort Necessity, p. 51, a brief reference to the failure of prompt supplies to Braddock's army, p. 59, and to the regularity of the correspondence of Washington, as to the details of business at Mount Vernon, during the entire war, p. 154, this is a reprint of No. 212. The other additions consist of numerous foot notes (24), some of them quite lengthy, besides including in the appendix, "Rules of Behavior," notes on "Washington's Expenses while Commander in Chief," on "His Religious Opinions and Habits," and one treating on the authorship of the Farewell Address. Re-issued 1842, 1843, 1844, 1852, 1853, 1854, 1855, 1857, 1860 and 1866. The last-named date is designated as the Seventeenth Edition.

main des Prés. | MDCCCXXXX. 6 vols., 8vo, and 4to Vol. of Portraits, Map and Plans.

This is the French translation of the Life of Washington, by Jared Sparks, No. 212, with a selection from the Writings referred to in the note of No. 238. Vols. I and II, pp. CLXXI, 291–408, contain the Life, preceded by the Essay or Introduction by M. Guizot, No. 238, the remaining volumes being devoted to the selection from the Writings. It is noteworthy that the name of Dr. Sparks does not appear on the title-page.

George Washington. [Washington and the Generals of the American Revolution. Vol. I. Philadelphia: Published by Carey and Hart. 1847. Equestrian Portrait.]

"Washington and the Generals of the American Revolution," 2 vols., 12mo, sixteen Portraits, was edited and partly written by Rufus W. Griswold, assisted by W. G. Simms, E. D. Ingraham and others. It is commonly known as "Griswold's Washington," and the authorship of the Washington sketch usually attributed to him. But of this there is no positive proof, and without good evidence to that effect we incline to doubt it. The writer has heard it ascribed to the pen of the late Horace Binney Wallace, of Philadelphia, but of this also no evidence was adduced, although such a parentage is entitled to much more favorable consideration.
